SUMMERFEST!

If you haven't heard the story, let me fill you in. Two years ago, I sat next to the principal of Woerner, Peggy Meyer, down in our fellowship hall. We were hosting an asset mapping event and had invited friends and neighbors from all over Holly Hills. We brainstormed and dreamed up ideas based on all the things we each brought to our table. Peggy offered the school play yard, I offered volunteers and grant writers, a teacher offered his band and soon we had the makings of a community picnic. The picnic was chosen as the best idea, and the neighbors there that night committed to making it happen.

Two years later it finally did! A picnic became a festival and soon we filled the yard with food trucks, a balloon art guy, bounce houses, bands, bubble vans, roving magicians, carnival games and friends. Kids, parents, and neighbors roamed the blacktop, talking and playing together. Community was formed around the kids and their families, and a neighborhood began to come together around them. It was something that God began long ago to work and to will in our neighborhood and we followed His Spirit and guidance.

Thank you all for your presence there and for your willingness to organize, design, advertise, move tables, set up tents, play and clean.

Peace to you in Jesus
Paul Terral
Director of Youth and Family Ministry

Lois, Ana, Jen, Chris and other Epiphany members partnered with many neighborhood volunteers to make the event a success.

FROM THE PASTOR

COMRADERY

While I was serving on Air Force Reserve Duty in May, I officiated a retirement ceremony for a man who served his country on active duty for 25 years. Senior Master Sergeant Octavius Duffey, III—he goes by “Duff”—and I worked together. Since meeting him seven years ago, he’s become a friend and a brother. I was deeply honored when he asked me to be part of the ceremony.

When you ask people why they serve in the military, many will tell you “comradery.” When I think of comradery, I think of my basic military training. I was 18 years old, first time living away from my family, thrown into this experience with these other young people and over the course of two months, suffering and striving, failing and succeeding together, those ladies became my sisters, those men became my brothers. That’s comradery.

A military retirement ceremony is never about just one person. This one was about the people with Sergeant Duffey in the Command Post on the morning of September 11th, 2001, when every phone in the building rang at the same time. It was about the people with Sergeant Duffey who hit the dirt alongside him 2 minutes and 37 seconds after getting off the plane in Afghanistan when the first of many mortars fell. It’s about the people who were with him on that deployment, and the ones who never came home.

I asked Duff what he remembered about his assignments around the world. He told me, “I was blessed to meet great people.” He said, “It makes me wonder how different I would be had I not met all these people,” these friends, these sisters, these brothers.

Comradery is close to what the New Testament means by the word “fellowship”. Fellowship, like comradery, is what happens when people are drawn together around a common vision, a common life and love. Fellowship draws me out of myself, out of my preferences, fears, and limitations, and links me to others in a greater purpose. Fellowship makes strangers into brothers and sisters.

The New Testament invites all who have ears to hear ... “have fellowship with us ... and our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son, Jesus Christ” (1 John 1:4). I have experienced the power of comradery in my nation’s military. This mission is only for this fleeting, passing, mortal life. I yearn for fellowship in a greater mission—a mission inviting all nations into true life, the life of God’s kingdom that will have no end.

Would you be my comrades in this?

IF YOU BUILD IT, THEY WILL COME

Epiphany has a vision to build. It's not a brick-and-mortar project. Instead, it's something we're building with the bonds of family, friendship, and good neighboring. We want to build a "third place"—a social space between work and home where unrelated people can relate. We want to use Epiphany's property and resources to equip people for self-giving service to their neighbors beyond the stone walls of Epiphany. This involves projects like building a neighborhood "rumble ball pit."

Sometimes it's called "Ga-Ga Ball." Ga-ga means "touch-touch" in modern Hebrew. Apparently, the game originated in a Jewish community in Australia. It's a fast-paced, high energy game played in an octagonal pit (basically a kinder version of dodgeball, which means you're less likely to take a ball to the beak). If you visit the blacktop playground at Woerner Elementary during a school recess, you'll get to see it in action. And if school's out, you could even join in on a game because the whole community has access to it.

On April 29th, grey-t-shirted representatives of Jesus from Epiphany partnered with Holly Hills Neighbors to build it. We are grateful for the community partners who donated to make this possible: Alderwoman Beth Murphy, Steve Butz (Crawford & Butz Insurance), Mel's Auto Service, Borgemeyer Dentistry, Dan Rataj (State Farm Agent), and the Holly Hills Improvement Association all teamed with Epiphany to fund the project.

For three years now, the people of Epiphany have been saying we want to partner with Woerner School and all willing neighbors to do good for our community. Building a rumble ball pit is another small, but important effort in putting our neighbors' needs before our own. This is what the Bible calls sacrificial love. We want everyone to experience receiving, giving, and living this kind of love. Why? Because we have come to know sacrificial-love-in-person: Jesus.

Thank you so much for your generous support in helping us construct a rumble ball pit.

The students love it!

Sincerely,

Staff & Students at Woerner School

COMING INTO A CLEARING

Imagine you're hiking a mountain. You set off through a thick forest of pine and aspen groves. The heavy trees and twisting trail make it difficult to see much beyond your immediate vicinity. As you climb, your legs and lungs begin to burn. You start to wonder if this was a good idea. But then you come to the first clearing. And the view takes your breath away. Forgetting the fatigue, you can't wait to see it from the top.

Confirmation in the Christian Church is like coming into this first clearing. The confirmand hasn't reached the goal of the journey, but a significant checkpoint. Some Christian traditions include confirmation as a one of the sacraments, such as the Roman Catholic Church. Other Christian traditions, like the Lutheran Church, don't see it as a sacrament. Rather, it's a response to the Sacrament of Baptism. It is a time for those baptized into Christ to stand and publicly acknowledge before God and all people that they gratefully receive their Baptism as a gift that never stops giving. Included in God's promise at Baptism are the gifts of the Holy Spirit, forgiveness, fellowship in God's family as an adopted son or daughter, and a place in Christ's Kingdom that will never end. Like coming into a clearing, confirmation helps us push through the fatigue and keep moving toward the goal.

Sadly, the practice of Confirmation has often been taken hostage by another metaphor. Too often confirmation is treated like a graduation. When graduates get their diplomas, many say, "I am so glad to be done with that." Graduated means done. This is a very different feeling compared to coming into that clearing. There, we said, "Wow, look how far we've come." And after pausing for a moment to enjoy the view, we're ready to get moving again.

We are on a similar kind of climb with Jesus. But rather than up a mountain, Jesus is leading us into life—true life, life as God had always intended it. We're on the way to life with God in His kingdom that is coming on earth as it is in heaven. On May 13th, we celebrated the confirmation of Will, Susie, Hannah, Derek, and Elise. We paused for a moment to take in the view and say to them, "Look how far you have come!" And together we confessed, "We didn't come this far to stop now."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Identity Youth Week

June 4 – 7, Faith, food, friends, mission. Please pray that God will work powerfully in the lives of the youth and volunteers who participate in this year's Identity Youth Week. Each morning starts with breakfast, followed by worship and a speaker, with mentors hosting discussions. After lunch, students and mentors are sent around South City St Louis to serve in the name of Jesus.

SMALL GROUP PILOT PROJECT

Who? All who are willing to commit to an 8-week experience of practicing the faith with a small group of other Christ-followers, sharing life together around God's Word. Four couples will lead these groups: Ben & Beth Hayter, Chris & Jen Hartley, Jarred & Ana Irby, and Derek & Jill Perry.

What? Each group will have a time of fellowship, prayer, and Bible Study on Jesus' Parable commonly called "The Prodigal Son," though it's more about the father and his two lost sons.

When? The groups will begin meeting Sept 9th, 2018 from 10:45 a.m. to 12 noon each Sunday until Oct 28th. Each meeting will include snacks and drinks, and two will include a full lunch (Sept 23 & Oct 28)

Where? Each group will gather on site at Epiphany in their designated meeting room. Childcare will be provided in the nursery for children under 5 years. Sunday School will be offered for older children.

Why? Life-long faith in Jesus is best nurtured through peer-to-peer conversations and intergenerational interactions within God's family, the Church. With the complexities of our busy schedules, Sunday morning is our best opportunity to let the Holy Spirit make this happen.

JUNE-JULY NEWSLETTER

JOHN BERNTHAL – SERVANT IN THE LORD’S HOUSE

John was born to Pastor Otto and Christine Bernthal in rural Missouri, on October 24th, 1927, the fourth of five children. The Bernthal’s moved to St Louis when John was 13. Even though he was a year younger than the other freshmen, he started attending Roosevelt High. He remembered feeling “so alone,” a country boy in a large, city school. After a couple of years, his family moved again, now to rural Illinois where his dad was called to be a pastor. John graduated high school there at the age of 16.

After graduation, John moved back to St Louis and worked for the Frisco Railroad for 19 years. Next, he got a job at Concordia Publishing House, where his dad worked when they were in St Louis. A consummate people-person, John thrived as a manager there. Later he became a top salesman before retiring in 1990 after 27 years of faithful service.

In 1952, John married his beloved wife Eunice. They were blessed with two daughters, Diane and Karen. When Eunice suffered with dementia during the last years of her life, John cared for her with Christ-like patience and compassion. One person who observed this commented, “John is the sweetest man on earth. I’ve never known anyone like him. The way he treated his wife—I’ve never seen a man like that ... kind, generous, compassionate.”

Almost as much as he loved his Lord and his family, John loved music. He used to watch his one-room-schoolhouse teacher play the organ at church, energetically working the keys and pedals. John decided that one day he too would play. Largely self-taught, John served as Epiphany’s organist and children’s choir director for 60 years, from 1946 to 2006. A year after John started, in 1947 the pastor wrote of his 20 year-old-organist, “Mr Bernthal has accomplished much in such a short time.” He could not have anticipated how much God would go on to accomplish through his servant.

Age 91, John fell asleep in Jesus on May 21, 2018. The inscription on his tombstone will read:

“I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever” (Psalm 23, verse 6).
