Reflections on Stewardship

June 27 – Proper 8, 2 Corinthians 8:3 – “For they gave according to their means, as I can testify, and beyond their means, of their own free will.” St. Paul lifts up an example of faithful Christian generosity in the Epistle lesson today. Read those words again this week and ponder them. How is the Lord calling you to increase your generosity toward His work?

LFCS Mental Health Minute: Healing the Mind, Body and Soul. Church provides a physical space for us worship; to praise the God of abundant love and mercy. Through fellowship (and often over coffee and donuts) we learn how the scripture is alive in our daily lives. Our children grow together while they hear the lessons from Noah, David, Peter, and Jesus in Sunday school. These common experiences have looked very different since the pandemic began. Pastors, church staff, and other ministry leaders have adapted the church environment. They stretched to balance new approaches to worship and ministry, creatively keeping congregants connected while instituting safety measures for everyone's protection. Some decisions were unpopular, but it is fair to say we all tried to do our best through the trying and traumatic time. As our world returns to a sense of normalcy, LFCS feels it relevant to speak about mental health within the context of faith and church. To offer insight into the interconnectedness of mind, body and soul, LFCS sat down with Heidi Goehmann, LSCW, author and deaconess. Her ideas suggest our brokenness affects everything around us, that Hope and connectedness are what God designed us for, and that there are simple ways for the church to be a mentally health space for all. You can view this interview via the link in last Wednesday's E-Letter.
